

WRD: Web Development Terms & Conditions

For web development quotes with a total value of £5,000 and above, a 40% deposit of the total amount will be required on commencement of work. The remaining 60% will be payable on completion.

Any changes to the scope of work after we've begun work or changes to the designs after they have been approved will need to be quoted for and may extend the delivery date.

Any changes thereafter will be chargeable at our current hourly rate of £120 per hour +VAT, as will any additional work that is not specified in the provided quotation.

Unless otherwise stated, the purchase of any images, licenses, plugins and modules etc. that may be required is not included in our proposal. If we purchase these on your behalf the cost will be charged back to you when the final balance is due.

The stated delivery dates are based on any additional content (text and images) being supplied before the web development project begins. Any delays in providing content or any changes or additions to the work specified above may mean that delivery dates are also delayed.

Where applicable, any web development work will be developed to be compatible with modern browsers for mobile and desktop usage. If compatibility with older or less common browsers is required, please advise before accepting this proposal, as further development time and cost may be involved.

Once complete and the final balance has been paid in full, ownership and rights to the work including any creatives/visuals will be transferred to the client.

If hosting is specified, then this is subject to separate Hosting T&Cs. If WRD's Website Maintenance Service is specified, then that service's T&Cs, as well as the SLA for the service, apply and can be found here.

Our Payment and our general trading terms also apply and can be found on our website.
